1659.

noble Sr

I should not have been so long from sending my thankes for your great favour but that I have bee greiuously afflicted with the toothe acke in so much as I thought I had the torments of hell in my flesh and that thos torments would have bee as euerlasting, be reason it could not be drawn out although I have valiantly suffred the pettars of a tooth drawer who hath broakn son parte of the walls but not pulld up the foundation but how so euer thos my torments and tormentors made me for the presant uncapell of presenting my thankes yet they could not mak me so unfratfull as not to remember thos my obligations receiue from you and truely Sr you may be a presedant to this age in that your genorous courtisie doth not only extend to the natiues of your country but to all strangers who kisses your fauorabl resettans by which a settans doth and my worth hath found fauor and respect at laidn for throw the great estem the uniuersity hath of you causes them to estem that which you present unto them so that you are the father of thos respects and complements I have receued from them for which I shall be euer gratfull as Sr becomes

Sir Kenelm Digby

133

© Koninklijke Verzamelingen, Den Haag
Archief Constantijn Huygens, G1-9.1
http://resources.huygens.knaw.nl/briefwisselingconstantijnhuygens/brief/nr/5597

© Koninklijke Verzamelingen, Den Haag
Archief Constantijn Huygens, G1-9.1
http://resources.huygens.knaw.nl/briefwisselingconstantijnhuygens/brief/nr/5597

A Monsieur

Monsieur De Zuleidem

A la Haye