

Sir

Though I take the boldness to believe you three English Gentlemen may have the favour to see this Receipt is now in hand, out of some place in your houses, it would not importun you who are always so willing to oblige our Nation and so civil to all the world, please you to let me know by this bearer who will inform me you who they are and that I am

Sir your humble servant
J. de Lenczstein
