

Sir

I have ever found you so ready to oblige that being upon my Journey I take the boldness to desire this favour from you if you think it may not importune His Excellence to reach him for a letter to the Admiral, best being at Rotterdam and the mind not good I think it my best course to go into Ireland, which I will not willingly doe but upon necessity, Beis your hands and rest

Your very affectionate servant
Elizabeth Newenham
