

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Dutch, covering the upper half of the page. The text is mirrored across the horizontal fold, indicating it was written on the reverse side of the paper. The ink is dark and the handwriting is dense and somewhat difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and fading.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Dutch, covering the lower half of the page. This text is also mirrored across the horizontal fold. It appears to be a continuation of the text from the upper section, though some words are less legible due to fading and the angle of the script.