

To the Lords of Arundell and Surrey. 2. of Sept. 16. 1544
Attache.

Right Hon. Be

I have made a faithfull report to ^{the Prince my master} ~~the King~~ of what y^r. Lords. have been pleased to command me touching ~~the matter~~ ^{my} Lord of Oxford. ^{upon} Whome y^r. Highness having allowed a ~~man~~ place of honour, ~~and~~ well becoming a young noble man, such as ~~the~~ a great deal of y^r. predecessors have always bene.
I see, that what was done by y^r. Highness in mere inclination both now & before even the more, because of y^r. Lord's noble applauding of his choice. ^{after w^{ch}} y^r. Highness' commandment me to assure y^r. Lord's of his ^{particular to y^r. Lord's} service in all occasions of greater moment depending of his free disposition.
The Prince joyed to this letter is but a small evidence of it. And, for my part, a ^{great deal} smaller one of my humble and most constant devotion to y^r.
Lord's ^{commands}. I hope now to have failed in that kind of dutie so far, ^{as} that I needed to be summoned of it by any mercenary reports. And yet it hath pleased y^r. L^{ds}. to deale wth. me something that way But such is this insinuation of receiving what I have made a faithfull report to the Prince my master of what y^r. Lords. have been pleased to command me touching the matter my Lord of Oxford. Whome y^r. Highness having allowed a place of honour, well becoming a young noble man, such as a great deal of y^r. predecessors have always bene. I see, that what was done by y^r. Highness in mere inclination both now & before even the more, because of y^r. Lord's noble applauding of his choice. after w^{ch} y^r. Highness' commandment me to assure y^r. Lord's of his service in all occasions of greater moment depending of his free disposition. The Prince joyed to this letter is but a small evidence of it. And, for my part, a smaller one of my humble and most constant devotion to y^r. Lord's commands. I hope now to have failed in that kind of dutie so far, as that I needed to be summoned of it by any mercenary reports. And yet it hath pleased y^r. L^{ds}. to deale wth. me something that way But such is this insinuation of receiving what

Right Hon. Be