

Noble and renowned

Et Constantijn Huygens Lord Secretary unto his highnes I am no more my owne then I desire to be yours in all serviceable love and hearty prayer for long life with increase of honour and happines unto your Lordship and all your worthy and hopeful plants. Let mee beseech you to accept the acknowledgement of a poor, but true well willer of grace and vertue where ever it is. and excuse mee I praye for I can not but call to minde first your owne free and noble promiss of intended good for our somes intertainment. next how carefully your Lordship was pleased to make use of that promiss of good when occasion was offered concerning the Synicrand, at which time all things could not concur to your liking or for o^r somes admittance. Next this last somer upon y^e death of on of your servants: at which time, you did not forgott our some, but did express what of love and affection you did beare towards him, but only that the long endeavours of an old and faithfull servant could expect noe less from your noble and generous disposition. for so indeed we did apprehend it. besydes your Lordships words unto the virtuous Lady Morgan as also your Lordships expression to my selfe in your chamber At y^e princes court here in Bergen as also your Lordships promise unto my wife in y^e house of Jonvrowd Arnoudt which makes us that weo dare not to harbour so much as a thought contrarye to our confidence in your faith and favour. and as the occasions present our prayer to god is that y^e noble worthines maye crowne our desires with good lucke success: that weo for our some, and our some for himselfe maye always have cause to praise god for your honour. whome god has raised up to be our noble friend here in a strange land and that as a patron for the good and comfort of vs and ours. not doubting but your reward will be double from y^e Lord. except I humbly intreat you of y^e afforesaid as y^e expression off his heart who desires ever to remaine yours.

Aug. 27.

It was this night to visit my Lady Morgan who wished me to remember his respects unto your Lordship and could not write at present but is very confident of y^e favour in respect of o^r some and so as weo.
