

Rt. Nov. 1660

nr 26

Præillustri Dominæ,

Pau tua, humanitatis, toties respecta, fiducia, amici digni, ac discipuli quondam mihi rogatu, qui me uti ad amicitiam vestram qualicūq; voluit paratis non illibenter, licet audacter forte nimis adductus oro ut in pau Gallo-Hispanicam Nitropi, litterarum harum portitoris, omnium Encomio opus dignissimum, tū omnibus longe dignissimus Epigrammati aliquo insigniri atq; illustrare digneris. Ignosce, queso, Pælyras ac affectum in divinam hoc ingenium <sup>mihi</sup> ~~mihi~~ a qui bonis consule. Dabam us <sup>1660</sup> Leida XXIII. Octobr. 1660.

Præillustri Dominæ,

Incomparabili nomini
tuo omni nomine dicatissi-
mus cliens

Hedricus Grunio.

The first part of the letter is very faint and mostly illegible. It appears to be a standard opening of a letter, possibly mentioning the date and the recipient's name. The handwriting is in a cursive script typical of the 17th century.

The middle section of the letter contains several lines of text, which are also very faint. It seems to be the main body of the letter, where the sender is conveying their message. The text is difficult to decipher due to the fading and the cursive style.

The bottom section of the letter is the most legible part, containing what appears to be a closing or a signature. The text is still faint but more distinct than the rest of the document. It likely includes a name and possibly a date or a reference to the letter's content.